The career fair was initiated by the German Aerospace Industries Association in cooperation with meetyoo conferencing. The virtual event is available in the year of "Innovation and Leadership in Aerospace" 2019 as the virtual kick-off of the ILA CareerCenter and is planned as an annual format. Interested parties and job seekers can use the online platform to get in contact with companies such as Airbus, ARTS, Collins Aerospace, Diehl, DLR, Lufthansa, OHB, MTU Aero Engines, Premium Aerotec, Recaro or Rolls-Royce. In live chats and forums, visitors can ask their questions and talk directly with the ARTS colleagues to get to know more about the diverse career opportunities of the engineering service provider.

The online trade fair format makes it easy to establish contact between candidates and aerospace experts. Exhibitors, including ARTS and potential applicants, meet online and can chat and exchange information and contact data, just like at a trade fair. The search is primarily for professionals, managers, working students and young professionals from the fields of engineering, technology, IT, natural sciences and research.

After registering for the event free of charge, trade fair visitors can create an online profile and apply digitally for specific job offers directly during the event. In addition, three digital auditoriums will be available in which exhibitors and event partners will give presentations to provide further information on topics such as current industry trends and projects, application processes and career prospects.

Visit our colleagues at SkyFoward and learn all about career opportunities with and at ARTS. Registration is free and open until 23 May. More information is available on the SkyForward homepage: www.skyforward.de.
