

ARTS at the Aircraft Interiors Expo Hamburg

At this year's AIX from 02.-04.04.2019 ARTS will present its solutions and projects for companies in the fields of Industrial Engineering, Technology Consulting and HR Services.

At 5 offices (Dresden, Hamburg, Munich, Toulouse, Sevilla) and more than 25 project locations, more than 500 technical and commercial employees work daily to realize the visions of ARTS customers.

In the Cabin Interior sector, ARTS has a wealth of project experience and proves its expertise in upgrades, retrofits and refurbishments inter alia in the A380 and A330.

"As an expert and partner for Industrial Engineering, Technology Consulting and HR Services, ARTS customers benefit from the fact that as an integrated solution provider we can use synergy effects efficiently and profitably and offer individual approaches in these service areas," says Gerald Unger, CEO and founder of ARTS.

In the first week of April ARTS presents its portfolio at the Aircraft Interiors Expo in Hamburg. Interested parties can talk to the aerospace expert and find out more about ARTS' numerous projects. Currently, one ARTS project team is responsible for the line maintenance of the Beluga fleet in cooperation with Sabena Technics, another team is deployed at ATR Aircraft and supports the maintenance and installation of mechanical systems.

With more than 500 exhibitors, Aircraft Interiors Expo (AIX) is the European trade show for innovations in the field of cabin interiors for aviation, in-flight entertainment and passenger services. It provides a platform to network with international aviation suppliers and learn about trends in aircraft interiors. Over 18,400 trade visitors are expected this year.

Visit ARTS at stand 6C80 in hall B6 at the Hanse Pavilion and find out how ARTS can support your company so that you can concentrate on your successful core business.
